

MINISTÈRE
DE L'AGRICULTURE
ET DE LA SOUVERAINETÉ ALIMENTAIRE

*Liberté
Égalité Fraternité*

AFRICAN SWINE FEVER KILLS PIGS

African swine fever is a highly contagious viral pig disease. It is not a threat to human health but can cause severe economic losses on farms. The disease is transmitted to pigs by contaminated food from infected countries. This disease is transmitted to pigs through contaminated food originating from infected countries.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS

Coming back from a trip abroad?

By plane, boat, coach or car?

Do not carry pigs or pig products. If you do, declare them to the transport authorities.

Never throw away your leftovers in nature. Make sure you dispose of your leftovers in appropriate, closed bins. Never feed leftovers to pigs.

Travelers don't spread the disease

[agriculture.gouv.fr
peste-porcine-africaine](http://agriculture.gouv.fr/peste-porcine-africaine)

Co-financed by the European union